We know that this decline from 647 has to be in 5 waves
Wave 2 went marginally above the 61.8% retracement of wave 1.
Hence, it was a deep correction.
Wave 4, then, will likely be shallow, but take time to finish wave 4 has already been to the 50% retracement level, but we can't be sure that it is over.

If this low was a tiny wave (1) of wave 5, we should get a swift decline as wave (3). While that is absent, maybe this low was just an X wave.

Then you use the technique taught in FWTF to determine where wave (5) and hence wave 5, will end. Buy near that target and you should be able to ride it up to AT LEAST 485, and if lucky maybe above 630

The fundamentals were weakest at the end of wave 3, but the next round of selling will be on lower volume as it retests 360 area.

I am not recommending short selling as it is never a good idea to sell in the final stages of a bear market
